MICK FLANNERY

Mick Flannery Unplugged

"In the end of the day and the heel of the hunt, you're left with the songs. Everything else comes and goes - the shows and the tours and the applause and the acclaim, which goes with them, the prattle and the palaver which accompany an album release. Everything else fades out of view. Everything else doesn't matter in the long run. But the songs remain. The songs you write on your own stick around. They're going to be here for many years to come so they deserve to be treated with due care and utmost respect in the creation process". Mick Flannery - 2017

Mick Flannery realised this a long time ago. He also realised that songwriting was the best part of this strange job of being a jobbing-gigging-talking-singing musician.

"Mick Flannery is a singing and songwriting force to be reckoned with" Siobhán Long, Irish Times

"Mick is a songwriter of the first order... His voice is pained, gravelly, and powerful. Recorded or live, it carries through and stops you in your tracks" Urban Folk, New York

"This former stonemason from Cork is a cracking songwriter with a voice that can stop you in your tracks" Tom Gatti, The Times UK

Tickets can be purchased in The Old Still Bar daily from 3pm - 10pm. Contact 024 82009 or 087 4148651.

Strings & Things Clashmore

FESTIVAL PROGRAMME

FRIDAY JUNE 2ND - SUNDAY JUNE 4TH
CLASHMORE, CO. WATERFORD

We would like to welcome you to the 2017 Strings and Things Festival. Due to the success of last year's Festival we decided, as a committee, to continue it in 2017. It would not work without the support of so many people in the village who have organised and supported our fund raisers. We hope you enjoy our programme for this year.

There is an old Irish saying “Ar scath á chéile a mhaireann na daoine” which means people live in each other's shadows or that we depend on each other. We hope that this festival will be an opportunity for neighbours and friends to celebrate all that's good about our village and that you will come and join us in that celebration.

Strings and Things Festival Committee

Tickets can be purchased in The Old Still Bar daily from 3pm - 10pm. Contact 024 82009 or 087 4148651. Please drink responsibly over the weekend.

OIDHCHE SHEANCHAIS

Robert Flaherty's lost Irish Gaelic film found at Harvard

Documentary pioneer Robert Flaherty directed the first film made in the Irish language, Oidhche Sheanchais ("A Night of Storytelling") in 1935 during the production of his now classic film Man of Aran.

Cited in nearly every history of Irish cinema, this short (11 minute) film has been missing, believed lost, since a fire destroyed the only known copies in 1943. A nitrate print of the film, purchased by the Harvard College Library in 1935 at the request of Harvard's Department of Celtic Languages and Literatures, was rediscovered by Houghton Library curators during a cataloging update in 2012.

Oidhche Sheanchais, a fascinating distillation of Flaherty's belief in cinema as a kind of folkloric art, depicts a typical Irish hearth, where the main cast members of Man of Aran sit, listening to an ancient tale told by famed Seanchai (storyteller) Seánín Tom Ó Dóráin. Oidhche Sheanchais is Flaherty's first work in direct sound and the first "talkie" in Irish Gaelic. It was filmed in the same London studio where the Man of Aran cast had already gathered for the recording of post-synch sound.
